Family Law (Canada)

Revised January 2026

Candidates are advised that the syllabus may be updated from time-to-time without prior notice.

Candidates are responsible for obtaining the most current syllabus available.

Family Law (Canada)

IMPORTANT NOTICE

As Canadian family law falls within both federal and provincial jurisdiction, each province will have statutes and jurisprudence relating to matters that fall within s.92(12) & (13) of the Constitution Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Victoria, c. 3 (U.K.)). Candidates are not expected to learn these bodies of provincial law for all jurisdictions. Rather, it is assumed that candidates will primarily focus on the statutes and caselaw in the jurisdiction in which they seek to practice. However, because a significant number of candidates typically seek to practice in Ontario, this course syllabus primarily includes Ontario's statutory regime and other materials as a default (subject to further comments on readings and materials below). For candidates seeking to practice in a Canadian jurisdiction other than Ontario, they should follow the topics and issues set out in this course syllabus; however, they may use the relevant corresponding statutes and materials from another Canadian jurisdiction. In those circumstances, particularly on examinations, it will be required that candidates properly identify the statutory section of a given Canadian jurisdiction they are relying on in response to an exam question, and pinpoint cites to relevant provincial jurisprudence. For example, where this syllabus refers to s.56 (4) of the Ontario Family Law Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter F.3 for the court's authority to set aside a domestic contract for the failure of a party to make full financial disclosure, candidates seeking to practice law in British Columbia could alternatively use s.93(3)(a) of the Family Law Act, SBC 2011 Chapter 25.

Provincial and territorial family law statutes and jurisprudence can be accessed through various online sources. (See e.g. CanLII, online: <https://www.canlii.org/en/>; Ontario, e-Laws, online: Government of Ontario <https://www.ontario.ca/laws>, and others.)

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course will review fundamental principles of family law. Significant emphasis will be placed on the economic and parenting consequences of family breakdown and divorce. Interjurisdictional orders fall outside the scope of the course. This course will not deal with the specialized topic of child protection. Contemporary issues such as family violence, rights of unmarried cohabitants, domestic contracts, and alternative dispute resolution processes will be addressed.

The objectives of this course are as follows:

- to provide an overview of family law with particular emphasis on the economic and parenting consequences of family breakdown and divorce
- to analyse contemporary issues in family law
- to develop legal skills in dealing with family disputes

- to identify the special nature of family disputes and innovative approaches to their resolution, such as collaborative law, mediation, arbitration and custody assessments

EXAMINATION

The examination is a three-hour open-book exam. Students may take any material they wish into the examination room. Students who are unfamiliar with open-book examinations are advised that they must know their material before the examination is held. There will not be time during the examination for students to search for solutions in areas with which they are not already familiar. A sample examination question paper is provided with this syllabus.
